Pashur puts Jeremiah in the stocks

Jeremiah was a preacher for over 40 years but he was not very popular because the people did not like to hear about their sin and God's judgement. One day Jeremiah collected a bottle from the potter's house and then went to the East Gate of the city to preach. Join up the explanation to what he said...

Thus saith the Lord

God is going to bring punishment for the people's sin

I will bring evil upon this place

People will be shocked when they hear about it

It will make their ears tingle

This is God speaking

At the end of the sermon Jeremiah threw the bottle onto the ground.

Pashur, the chief governor of the temple, did not like God's message so he beat Jeremiah and then put him in the stocks.

During the night Jeremiah prayed. God told Jeremiah that in the morning he must give Pashur a message.

Jeremiah was obedient and bravely told Pashur that God had changed Pashur's name to...

(Colour in the letters below which have dots in them to find out his new name)

This new name means terror and everyone was going to be frightened of Pashur. However, Pashur himself would be taken as a captive to Babylon and he would die there.

Despite being rejected by people like Pashur, Jeremiah continued to be a faithful preacher and prophet of God. He was a humble man who really cared about the people of Jerusalem. He was often emotional when he thought about the suffering that would come if the people did not repent of their sins. But he trusted God and knew that one day God would send a Saviour.
